Will need a lot of details if you want to really get into this one. I am rather new to this and was wondering if i could get some help here. I have just begun to loose my current virginity. Please take it easy on me. I don't know my limits yet. I am looking for some advice. Here are some things that i have noticed when wearing my kimono to the beach. Is this something i should expect or is this just a bonus that happens sometimes. There is such a thing as the "sun screen factor". If your hair is blonde do you have an easier time keeping from getting burned and is it darker or lighter if you have to wash your kimono more often? Be gentle with your answer, i am not looking for something permanent here, just some suggestions. Here are some things that i have noticed when wearing my kimono to the beach. If your hair is blonde do you have an easier time keeping from getting burned and is it darker or lighter if you have to wash your kimono more often? If you're blonde you'll need sunscreen (even on days when the UVB is at a lower level). I have dark-brown hair so I don't get terribly burned in the summer, but if it was dark-brown hair, you might need to wear a hat in addition to the sunscreen. I found this bathing suit very comfortable this year, though I didn't have a chance to try it with a kimono. It is called the 'Shinobi Bikini' by Aussie Activewear. It cost $64.99 at my local Target store.
