Q: Replace spaces in a portion of a string I'm working with strings that contain spaces, I know how to remove the spaces from the string completely. For example I have the following string: `$ str = "There's a string with spaces"; $ str = str_replace(array(" ", "\r", "\t"), "", $str);` This will remove all of the spaces. But what if I want to replace a single space at a specific location? `$ str = "There's a string with spaces"; $ str = str_replace(array(" ", "\r", "\t"), "", str_replace(" ", "", $str));` This will replace the space with a single space because there is no space following the space. So I want to take the replace the first space after "There's". The first "There's" has a space, the second "There's" doesn't. I want to remove the first space after the "There's" and replace it with a single space. How would I go about doing this? I can do this with Regex but I'm hoping there's a simpler way. A: `if (preg_match('/ /', $input) &&!preg_match('/ /', $input[$match])) {` f30f4ceada
