===== At this point, we can conclude that C. bovis is an opportunistic pathogen, which can cause infection in both immunocompetent and immunocompromised patients. It causes a skin and bone infection with a possibility of dissemination, in particular to the blood, lung or bones.

Infections with C. bovis are usually less severe and are more difficult to treat than those caused by C. histolyticus and C. striata. The authors thank Katarzyna Rybak, M.D., from
