Many people will now have Google Chrome installed on their computers even if they aren't using it all of the time. To help users get around this Google Chrome can download their bookmarks to the computer. To do this you would first need to open the tab you want to download and then right click and select 'Save as...' before you do anything else. When you right-click on the URL you have chosen to download you will be presented with a new window that looks like this one below. Q: Which item is more powerful in League of Legends? I know that the best items depend on the champions played, but which of the items is more "powerful" than the other in League of Legends? A: The terms powerful and good are somewhat relative. A set of items based on a mechanical concept of powerful and good is generally accepted (which item is superior, for example). Generally, you end up with a tier of items which are accepted, and a tier of items which are not. However, the concept of power is more subjective. As the question asks for an item to be more powerful, the answer to this question will depend on the effectiveness of the item. It is very hard to compare two items because all items aim at different aspects (damage, tankiness, AS, etc), for a given champion. Finally, there is no "best" item, and you can achieve synergy of items together to create power. The most powerful combinations of items will be able to deal with an entire match. The most powerful synergy of items will be able to deal with entire lane (aka tanky/damage item combination). The most powerful synergy of items will be able to deal with an entire teamfight (aka AS item combination). The most powerful synergy of items will be able to deal with the opposing team's entire composition. A: By "powerful" I mean that it fills a role well - it is good in many aspects, and is usually used for the purpose the item is intended. Most items are "good" in one aspect or another. For example, a simple 21/21/9 AD item is "good" against normal attacks, but not against early game minion attacks. By "powerful" I mean that it fills a role well, and as such is used effectively for the purpose the item is intended. One example is an early game item, like a last hitting item. Or, an item which renders a champion more effective in a specific role. But it can even be
