Juniper (2019). A third way to love women. As long as they are women (which the Iron Fist is perfectly fine with). Theres a third way to love women that is as old as time. But this third way is not for a person like Dan Driscoll and it is not about fighting. It is a way of embracing female femininity. It is a way of honouring and cherishing femininity. It is a way of appreciating and embracing female expressiveness and it is as old as time. Since Dan Driscoll is the Iron Fist, he is perfecting a third way to love women. The third way to love women that he is perfecting is when he embraces feminine femininity. It is not about grabbing a woman by the throat or choking her. Rather, it is an embracing of feminine expressiveness. It is affirming feminine expressiveness. It is respecting feminine expressiveness. It is cherishing feminine expressiveness. Just like in the same way Dan Driscoll is perfecting a third way to love women, there are other male-dominated organizations who are perfecting a third way to love women as well. In other words, the Iron Fist and his brethren are perfecting a third way to love women. This third way is the third way to love women that exists outside of the third way to love women that is for men. Perhaps, it is not so much about Dan Driscoll perfecting it anymore. Because the Iron Fist is perfecting a third way to love women. It is a way of embracing feminine expressiveness. It is an embracing of feminine expressiveness. It is a respectful appreciation of feminine expressiveness. It is a cherishing of feminine expressiveness. This third way to love women that the Iron Fist is perfecting is a way of loving 0cc13bf012

So I want to make a group of radio buttons that if one is checked, the rest stay unchecked. Right now I am populating my options from a json and creating radio buttons for them individually. The problem is, I don't know how to "parent" these radio buttons. So even though this answer is probably obvious, I can't find it. Also, I am pretty new to javascript. How would one do this if you don't have a way to access the parent? jQuery(document).ready(function(){ console.log("Document ready..."); $("#submit").click(function(){ var productName = $('input:text').val(); var pic = $('input:file').val(); var dataString = 'name='+ productName + '&pic='+ pic; if(productName == "" || pic == ""){ alert("Please fill out all fields...!"); } else{
