The Durango Raiders beat New Mexico Tech, 104-91, on Nov. 2; beat Regis, 123-120, on Nov. 3; and beat defending national champion Rocky Mountain, 119-112, on Nov. 4. Durango then beat Santa Fe St. Francis, 102-68, on Nov. 5, to get to the regional round in Laramie, Wyo. "I'm proud of the girls," coach Megan Copp said. "We're having fun. They're doing what they need to do." As a team, Durango outscored its opposition by a 70.5-62.5 margin. "The girls were really good, and they played really well," Copp said. "They had a lot of fun." The Raiders are 10-11 overall, 8-3 in Region 2-1A. Durango was the favorite to win the tournament because it was the No. 2 seed, while the No. 3 seed Santa Fe St. Francis has a 20-4 record.

2.2 Large scale deposits of colloidal particles. Beforehand, we have 2 2 Silicon particles ( $2A$) In the final the charge of the particles is led 2 4 Concerning the optical setups, one can choose between 2 2 and we will only consider the 2 2 version here. The basic principle of observation is shown 2 4 It is important to note that the behaviour of colloids in liquids is not only a function of the particle size but also depends on 3 2 For the sake of simplicity, we will refer to the silicon particle as a particle and the gold as a object. As mentioned in the introductory part, we have colloidal suspensions in 2 2 which can be colloid-cationic, 2 2 - and colloid-anionic in nature (Taylor and Russel, 1988). 3 2 After the preparation, the silica colloid in the solution is centrifuged for a 3 2 period of time to obtain particles having the same size. We will refer to the resulting particle as the particle Size measurement. We have used a CCD camera to record our observations. The CCD responses to the scattering behaviour of the particle, An example for such behaviour is shown Schematic diagram of the setup in the near field configuration. The sample consists of a colloidal suspension of silicon particles (particles), in water. After a period of centrifugation, the particles are deposited on a substrate, as shown As the particles are denser than the liquid, they will reside at the bottom of the fluid Our goal is to determine the distance between the particle and the gold. We shall consider this gold particle to be placed at a distance  $z = 0$  As we describe below, we shall use an interferometer as mode of measurement. Fig. 2 The CCD camera is used to image the particle, when viewed from below. The video will show a series of images as the particle is brought in contact with the gold. FLY-TEST-MANUAL Flat magnet can be a bear. Despite the simplicity of this design, applying the magnetic field should not be too hard. However, a flat magnet is not really ideal for a permanent magnetic field generator. The whole magnet does not saturate, and the magnetic field is very sensitive to the configuration of the magnet, therefore a more complicated magnet design, such as a ring magnet or a cylind
