Dang it. I was going to show it all to you! ^_^ That is the most disgusting and funny thing that has ever happened to me! I got a stuffed animal. It looks like a spiky monster with little spikes on its back and around its head. It has a really big black mouth with a claw in it and one long metallic red eye. It's so freaking pretty and small! I named it "The Clawy Monster." Thank you Santa, you did such a wonderful job! Remember my post about the family I haven't seen in a year? My mom's sister and her boyfriend went to visit her last weekend. I got to see my two cousins! It was awesome!! Happy Birthday baby!Wells Fargo customers in less than 30 days will receive robocalls telling them about a service they can use to monitor their finances online. Bank of America customers will receive the same robocall in about 60 days, according to an internal memo obtained by Bloomberg. The two banks are reportedly in talks with America's largest debt-collection firm to establish the messages. Bank of America and Wells Fargo disclosed last week that their workers in South Carolina are been told to forward robocalls to debtors asking about a service that banks can't even send to debtors on their own. The Bank of America letter to employees, obtained by Bloomberg, "noted that the most common industry practice is for third-party debt collection agencies to issue robocalls." "We are currently in discussions with an industry partner regarding the possible use of live, third-party debt collection agents," it said. The BofA memo said the firms have a "robocall-blocking service" that consumers can
