Firstly, a note of thanks to Satoshi Tajiri, creator of the Pokemon series, who, in appreciation for the development of this game, gave developers behind it the chance to create it. The reason he did this is because he was against the genre of action RPGs in general, to which this game belongs. Had he not given the developers this chance, the sport of new generations would not have been born.”—SATOSHI TAJIRI, creator of the Pokemon series, voice of the game: “When I heard that a game called Pokémon Emerald was being created, I had no idea that this game would become a hit in Japan and that it would also be the first action RPG for the new generation. I’m sure that many people will enjoy games that includes such elements as enemies. However, I’m glad that an action RPG was born from this game. I want to thank everyone, especially the game’s developers, for having the courage to create an action RPG like this. I want to also thank everyone who took the time to play this game, from the first day of its release until now. Thank you very much.” -HIDEAKI NAITO, creator of the Shin Megami Tensei series “Pokémon Emerald was released on the eleventh of August of 2001, after the success of the mainline Pokémon games. When I first heard this game was being developed, I didn’t think that it was an action RPG at all. However, after playing through it myself, I realized that action RPG elements had definitely been added. I’m sure many people bff6bb2d33
