If two jobs are scheduled simultaneously, they will run in order (even if not so ordered in the list). If only one job is scheduled, it will run at any given time. This script can be scheduled to run at any time you choose (even automatically at the preset time). It will check the directory you have specified at regular intervals for any status changes. There will be a log in the script root directory that will list changes. Related Scripts We hope this script will help others, if it does,
