You are the commander of the Italian Army's 131st Armored Division "Centauro" in Libya. Considered one of the finest fighting units of Italy during the Second World War, the 131st Division performed heroically on the island of Pantelleria in January 1943, earning it the nickname "First Red Tractor" for its successful delivery of supplies to the besieged British garrison in the island and the launching pad for the Allied offensive to El Agheila in Libya in the spring of 1943. After the 31st of May 1943, when Nazi German forces made their final attempt to drive out the Allied armies from Africa, Operation Olive leaf tried to retrieve the situation and push the Germans back to their fortifications in front of Tripoli. Order your best tank squadrons to rearguard the Allied forces, provide covering fire at hard-to-reach places or lead the counter-attack to reclaim the territory in tactical battles inspired by the real events in Africa. Follow the path of your division in the new campaign covering the battles from El Ageyla to the battle of Beda Fomm. To complete the Desert-Mountain campaign, join the Allied forces and push on to the Colonel's stronghold in the hills at Bardo. Features: New playable campaigns: Desert-Mountain and Savary-Savary will introduce Italian and Allied forces on various ground and in varied combat conditions. New types of vehicles: The Semovente M40 tank destroyer, the Carro Armato M13/40 medium tank, the Autoblinda AB 40 armored car and many more join the already existing M13/39 L3/40 medium tank. New maps: Relive real-life battles in the desert and mountains of Africa. The landscape has been recreated using historical photographs, which means we will also have the unique opportunity to join the other side in the battles that took place on these challenging terrains. New unit types: The 131st Division's combat vehicles set the pace and highly-motivated troops lead the way. The Italian Army's best medium tanks and infantry support vehicles fight in tactical maneuvers by day and night supported by air-defense units and the large squadrons of AA guns. New units: The First Red Tractor's best commanders and troops perform daring manoeuvres that will show you the secrets of the Middle East battlefields. New tactics: The 131st Division Centauro commanded by Guglielmo Graziani received the ReviewsQ: How to change the number of commits in each pull request? In Github for Enterprise we can choose how many commits we want to commit to the pull request: but what I want to do is to get a list of commits from each project to the pull request, something like this: I have access to the API but I don't know if that's the right solution. A: This is not supported as a custom feature. What you want is not possible, because of the different nature of pull requests (source). One workaround is: Push your code to Github Create a fork of that repo (so you have the same history as the original) Create pull request from the fork to the original repo

Synthesis of 2-azolyl- and 2-amino-6-(1'-aziridinyl)pyridine. 2-Azolyl-6-(1'-aziridinyl)pyridines were obtained in five steps from the appropriate acylthio amines in 55-80% overall yield. Acylation of the 2-azolyl pyridine was achieved by treatment of the 2-azolyl pyridine with 4-(dimethylamino)pyridine-1-oxide hydrochloride in the presence of 2,6-lutidine. The 2-amino pyridine was obtained by nucleophilic displacement of the 2-aziridinyl group with tBuN₃. All the products were characterized by NMR and elemental analysis.

Regional myocardial blood flow in the acute ischemic state of the human heart. To elucidate the mechanism of acute coronary occlusion and subsequent collateral development, regional myocardial blood flow (rMBF) was measured during occlusion in the early stage (less than 2 h) and in the late stage (greater than 3 h) of acute coronary occlusion. In the early stage, rMBF in the ischemic area decreased less than 10% below control levels, despite the severe ischemic state (less than 10% rMBF in ischemic area and 80% rMBF in nonischemic area), indicating that sufficient rMBF and metabolic reserve existed in the ischemic area in the early stage. In the late stage, however, rMBF in the ischemic area decreased further and

What's new:

(comic strip) Death Live is a fictional comic book published since 1997 by Oni Press, with Grendel collaborating artist Daniel Samper. Publication history Death Live started as an independent comic book, launching in 1997. Most issues featured multiple artists, usually two, and were usually longer than the industry standard 32 pages, running 60 pages. At least 27 issues of the series were produced, with the final issue released in 2006. Death Live is an ongoing series that began with a Halloween/X-Mas themed anthology, the character designs for which were created by Paul Grist, then inked by Mark Texeira. Other issues were produced, including a 6-part "1 After 9" story in which Death is freed from his chains and reinstated as the "God of Hell". In "Heart of Darkness", Death is shown to have a "past life" as an ax murderer; an anniversary issue featured a new story with a reprinted version of a 1944 EC Comics story "The Tell-Tale Heart", with a different color scheme. Circa 2006 the line became exclusively black and white. The series began to suffer from poor sales. Although the individual artists each had gained a following, the quality of the product seemed to be at a nadir at this point. Grendel continued to produce further issues throughout the next decade, sometimes he did only one or two, at other times returning to Death for a monthly serialization. In 2007 Oni Press acquired production rights to Death Live, relaunching with a Death issue (#234). For the first time, issues featured three penciled pages with stylized comic book strip by Daniel Samper, new color through coloring by Heike Fink and meticulous line work through Marat Grigorian. The look and feel of the book changed dramatically. Oni continued to produce Death issues, eventually soliciting another miniseries, "Deadly Holy Night in Bethlehem" in 2011, but so far no new issues have been released. Characters In the early issues Blackthorne was the titular character, but he later took on the moniker Death, which is his true name. He was represented as a young man until issue 14 where he was shown to be in his mid 30s. The series followed him as he struggled with his own demons, becoming more and more insane. The sanity of Death deteriorated to the point where he stopped aging. Zebediah Thorn was a young
