It's not just another push-the-broom variety hit - it's an interactive-poetry mosh pit of delirium. There are no calories, no carbs, no fat, no quarter-life crises - just three minutes of uncalibrated reality, a collective subconscious that flares into crazy life at full volume. After his girlfriend and child disappear in a mysterious storm, a father makes a heroic attempt to find them.

Now, in this true-to-life, mystery-thriller, desperate father must make a terrible choice and find his family in the darkness.

When his daughter went missing, Sean began his quest for truth. Deep Sorrow chronicles his journey into the heart of darkness, following him on his harrowing journey to the man responsible. Only a few days earlier, he'd returned home to find his family preparing to leave. Out of the blue, mother and daughter weren't home yet, though the house was relatively intact. He later found his daughter's backpack with a note, apologizing for running off.

At the doors, he met with an ally to determine the whereabouts of his family but his inquiries were futile.

Unable to defeat the darkness on his own, Sean turned to the man he believed to be a neighbor. But while Sean was gone, the house was empty and a cadaver was found on the kitchen floor.

Halloween was approaching but the night didn't agree with his neighbor. Sean doesn't suspect anything less than the worst in this situation.

It seemed like nothing was outside the ordinary. He lost all contact with his wife and daughter and leaves no trails. When things seemed to have reached a dead end, he determined to probe further. As he starts his journey into the darkness, he realizes there is a price to pay for his quest. His daughter's fate was his as he remembers the evil eye as dark as death.

Only the participant knows what he will find. Can he save his daughter and find the truth? You'll have to keep an eye on that man.

Classic Who's Your Daddy was created as a tribute to the show that made me a fan of Doctor Who, and nostalgic for the new generation of Doctor Who fans who were just beginning to discover the wonders of the Doctor's TARDIS. Classic Who's Your Daddy features game play similar to ZZT, with the "who's the daddy" feature replaced by a simple game of Noughts & Crosses. Traditional Music scattered throughout the game. This took me around four months to make, and I hope you enjoy it! Beckow wins Wimbledon's crown Beckow wins Wimbledon's crown JUDGE Raymond Moore handed out the colourful swimming shorts to Tom Beckow, the 19 year-old Wimbledon Junior Champion from America, on Centre Court yesterday after the title was granted to him ahead of the 11 other competitors. "This is the most wonderful day of my life," said the young Beckow, who was competing in the open section of the tournament. "I've worked hard for this since I was 13 and I always dreamed of this kind of day. I still can't believe it." As Beckow was being presented with the t-shirt that completes the suit, a young girl fainted and had to be carried out to the ambulance. Annette Smith "It's very hard to describe how wonderful this is for me," said Beckow. "I don't really understand it. I guess it's really strange." The new champion was crowned by the elder statesman Raymond Moore, who was the Chief Judge in the final. Beckow was to have appeared in the Wimbledon championships for the last two years, but these were interrupted by injuries. During the past fortnight, he had competed in Australian and Canadian tournaments, and came into the final with the momentum of such events behind him. "I put tremendous effort into getting back," said Beckow. "I really worked hard in my training sessions and I think that put me in the best shape of my life." With the weather decidedly un-Wimbledon in the evening, there was a capacity crowd, even though most were hoping for the rain to dampen proceedings. "There was quite a crowd," said Beckow. "I'm sure a lot of people are dying to see me come on Centre Court." As the American embraced his parents, who came to support him, the crowd voiced their approval, while giving a cheer to c9d1549cdd

What's new:

Selection ~*~Christmas Party at the King's Hill Hotel~*~ (from the soundtrack "The Kingdom of One's Own") As the king and queen drop in, the barkeeps tout new ways to enjoy the spiced wine and one guest suggests a Christmastime music playlist. His proposal excites the party: a mixture of old and new, dark and holiday-friendly songs. This post is an experiment based on the idea of "reimagining" Christmas, to take it out of the snowy house and into the world of the realm. You cannot save Santa, but you can bring the spirit and the joy of the season to your own home. A (touristy!) holiday playlist for the King's Hill restaurant in Skipton, Yorkshire, UK. Some of these items are podcasts. For a few weeks, I will highlight one of the tracks per week. If you're in the UK, check the tour dates for King's Hill. I hope you enjoy this trip around the holiday season. A Christmas Carol ... This is a scene from the first theatrically released adaptation of A Christmas Carol: Many adaptations follow the same path taken by Charles Dickens: Scrooge becomes a more benevolent person. Kingdom Two Crowns, based on the Middle Ages series, does not have a "happy ending," nor does it read like a classic Charles Dickens story. I am guessing a few of you reading this, will like the game. Most have not heard of it and therefore would not understand. But I am hoping at least a few of you will pick up the free copy—at long last—to explore a new world. I guess that makes me a gambler, but in my world, that's a good thing. I expect I'll write a few more words about King's Hill, a very cool kingdom. If you're visiting, I hope you discover Christmas in England. Maybe the camaraderie of the Snowdrop Café will help you get a jump start on Christmas preparations for your home. If you've played King's Hill: The Kingdom of Two Crowns, I look forward to your comments in the comment boxes below. Every few months, a new recording comes across my desk. It's a different kind of sound
