App., 281 P.2d 780.) A strategy for the synthesis of polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbon derivatives. The transformation of various aromatic hydrocarbons to the corresponding polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbon derivatives is presented as a means of preparing various polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbon isomers. Typically, these compounds are generated in low yield from naturally occurring sources, or their synthesis often requires multi-step processes. In this work, the reaction of lithiated aromatic hydrocarbons with arylboronic acids was successfully applied to a rapid and efficient synthesis of these valuable isomers. Lithiated naphthalene was used as a substrate to afford a dibenzo fused polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbon as a single product.Q: Cannot cast to base class I have a base class that has a field that is of a templated type, something like this: class Base { template T field; } Then I have a derived class that has a field of type char: class Derived : public Base { char field; } When trying to use a cast like this: const Base* pointer = (const Base*)target; I get this error: error: conversion from 'Derived' to 'Base' is not possible
