Endogenous and exogenous estrogen alters the distribution of the P-glycoprotein in uterine luminal and glandular epithelial cells of the rat. It is suggested that resistance to various drugs by the cells of some organs and tissues occurs because of active efflux mediated by a membrane transporter protein, P-glycoprotein. This study was undertaken to determine whether the P-glycoprotein is altered by the endogenous or exogenous estrogen in uterine endometrium of the rat. Ovariectomized rats were treated with or without estradiol-17 beta. The day of study was taken as day 0. Rats were treated with estradiol-17 beta at 0.1 mg/kg body weight for 15 consecutive days or with the vehicle of estradiol-17 beta for the same period. Whole uterine tissue, luminal epithelium and glandular epithelium were obtained by scraping. The expression of the P-glycoprotein in each tissue was determined by Western blot analysis with a monoclonal antibody. The P-glycoprotein content in uterine luminal epithelial cells was significantly lower on day 0 as compared to day 15 in the rats treated with or without estradiol-17 beta. After day 0, the P-glycoprotein content in luminal epithelial cells was significantly lower on day 15 than on day 0. On the other hand, in the rats treated with the vehicle, there was no significant difference in the P-glycoprotein content in luminal epithelial cells obtained on day 0 and day 15. The P-glycoprotein content in glandular epithelial cells was significantly lower on day 0 and day 15 as compared to day 15 in the rats treated with estradiol-17 beta.(ABSTRACT TRUNCATED AT 250 WORDS). Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a method for the exhaust-gas cleaning of a lean-burn internal-combustion engine as well as an exhaust-gas cleaning system which includes an exhaust-gas filter device, which is supplied via a heating device with a storage medium, which absorbs exhaust-gas components, and which has at least two flow-through channels for a heating medium and a storage medium. 2. If you can't apply, you can always just use the Keygens. Only problem with using the Keygens is the their are no icons so you can't select them easily, instead of a continent you have three choices: Black Sea, From Europe, and from Africa. Each has slightly different results. As for the Battlefields, only the ones that are working with the Asia-Pacific Campaign are listed. So if you are on the other continent, just select the Battlefields tab in the lower left and look up which continent they are in, or use the legend at the top. In the video above I also skip to the way to the next planet, so you don't have to. But the downside to this, is that with the items disabled and the cores enabled, you will be missing out on some of the items and abilities. rvtotw version 1.3 (Please note that an update is about to be released.) Total War: Rome v1.4 All No-DVD Cracked. Awesome in different ways. Total War: Shogun v1.4 HD No-DVD * 'Update' already included *. VERY INTENSE in a good way. What makes it worse is there are no Bonus battles or random battles. It has four different battle fields (continent and or Battlefields). If you can't apply, you can always just use the Keygens.
