... At the beginning of winter, at the end of the second month, a bridge was thrown across one of the streams that made their way in the mountains. In a year, only two boards remained from the bridge. On these boards, now and then at the risk of falling into the water, with knapsacks and sacks over their shoulders, with children in their arms, with animals in a lead, there was a group of people. Man thirty. All on foot. On the shoulders - bundles of brushwood, and even weapons on the shoulders, in the hands - axes. We walked as we always did: at first quietly, cautiously.
