3d Max 2015 Crack Only

in the past, crack cocaine users have been charged with sentences that are far more severe than users of powder cocaine. therefore, the ratio of crack to powder cocaine is far greater than 1:1. the way the fsa was set up reflects outdated assumptions about the relative harm of crack cocaine and the needs of society. there is no sound reason to treat crack cocaine the same as powder cocaine, because both are the same drug with the same addictive properties. crack cocaine is not different than powder cocaine, and there is no justification for a penalty ratio that is vastly different between them. the only way to reduce the disparity between crack and powder cocaine is to reduce the penalty for users of the powder cocaine. the fsa also would increase the number of federal crack cocaine offenses that would trigger mandatory minimum sentences and provide enhanced sentences for "crack kingpins". in the past, the sentences for crack cocaine offenses have been far less than the sentences for powder cocaine offenses. as a result, the sentencing disparity between crack and powder cocaine offenses has been substantially higher than that between powder cocaine and heroin offenses. but that's changing. if the fsa was actually implemented, as proposed, it would result in almost all crack cocaine defendants receiving mandatory minimum sentences, and would impose an enhanced sentence on almost all crack cocaine kingpins. this would create a greater disparity between crack cocaine and powder cocaine offenses than between crack and powder cocaine. but the sentencing commission's study showed that this would not be the case. 5ec8ef588b
