The 17-year-old Kentucky Derby runner-up has emerged with a four-race winning streak since returning to racing in February at Palm Meadows, culminating in Sunday's Grade I Gulfstream Park Handicap at a mile on turf. Bazeek Insurance, a son of Tale of Ekati who is trained by former Derby winner Todd Pletcher, is second in the Gulfstream Park Handicap at 5-1 odds. The 3-1 second choice in the Gulfstream Park Handicap is Louisiana Derby winner Talaak, ridden by Miguel Mena. Most of these will be racing on dirt for the first time. Most had decent dirt track experience. A few had been briefly exposed to dirt in the past, but certainly haven't had much experience. This is a very talented group of 2-year-old fillies. That isn't all that Nostalgic had to overcome. She comes to the Kentucky Oaks off a terrible run. She has yet to show anything resembling her 2019 speed. While she was able to save a bit of ground in the fast soft track, she finished ninth there, and only moved up from 16th to 15th in the 10th place Kentucky Derby. She has been racing quite sporadically so far this year, and had a hard time in her prep races. Her most recent work came in an allowance sprint at Fair Grounds on March 6, where she was sixth. Just like the Derby, The Oaks has been held annually since 1875. It was contested as a Grade 1 race for the first time in 1978, and in the ensuing decades the 1 1/8-mile race has taken a very prominent place in the racing landscape. Notable fillies to have won the Oaks in the past half-century include Davona Dale, Bold n Determined, Princess Rooney, Open Mind, Silverbulletday, Ashado, Rags to Riches, Rachel Alexandra, Blind Luck, Untapable, and Monomoy Girl.

The Arkle Challenge Trophy at Aintree is not only considered to be one of the most prestigious races in all of racing, it also features the most betting market worldwide. The bumper odds available in this Group 1 race attract a massive online following. With the popularity of this race, it was far from surprising to see a huge following for Derby and Oaks winner Justify. This pair are considered to be the best threesome to ever grace a race track. Seattle-based attorney Jason Moss is licensed in the state of California, New York, and Massachusetts. His pastimes in horse racing range from handicapping to providing educated opinion. He also works for the Organization of Governmental Attorneys Offices of America (OGA), which provides unbiased legal advice to the U.S. government on matters of legal and legislative significance. The expected drive to the lead, the three wide up the track, and the shackle sitting awkwardly on the lead. It would be only slightly surprising if they change everything for the Kentucky Oaks. The next few races are key for Team 23XI. Coming off an exciting race, the Spring Cup Series is this weekend. He is building a team of young shooters for the next generation of racing. Jimmy Lewelling said, We see what the other teams are doing on their race cars, and we feel like we need to do our own thing. If we work hard and we stick together, the sky is the limit. Maryland and New Mexico are a bit of an odd couple when it comes to thoroughbred racing. New Mexico has two tracks with race courses, and the dirt track at Rio Grande is a far cry from the mile and a half main track at the Oklahoma State Fairgrounds. New Mexico boasts five Thoroughbred racing programs from September through May. There's no Oaks racing program in the state, and only one Derby program with the annual Maryland Million Handicap at Pimlico.
