The Sony A7R III is a split analogue and digital lens camera featuring a 24.2MP APS-C image sensor with BIONZ X processor and a DIGIC 6 image processor, along with an EXR Processor II that helps to achieve a combined ISO of 51,200-102,400 (Extended) and ISO 25600-51,200 (Standard). Combined with an ISO sensitivity of ISO 100-102,400 and H.264 video recording in 3D LUT, the A7R III offers exceptional versatility and performance. At the heart of the A7R III is the 24.2-megapixel APS-C XGA Exmor R image sensor with more than 25% higher resolution than Sony's previous full frame Alpha model, a BIONZ X image processor that helps achieve the ISO 51,200-102,400 (Extended) sensitivity range, and a DIGIC 6 image processor that provides powerful performance for high-speed continuous shooting at 20 fps in 4K video. It also features a faster AF module (combined with a dedicated line-up of sensitivity settings) to minimize the time it takes to focus on a subject. Live-View and Sweep Panoramas The A7R III's 24.2-megapixel XGA (12,288 x 6,144) full frame sensor provides exceptional resolution for a full frame camera and also makes it possible for you to shoot multiple wide-angle or telephoto exposures to create a panorama of your view. The camera also has the ability to shoot full-frame panoramas with the WV-2 viewfinder. You can also shoot long-exposure images by using the long-exposure sweep panorama mode, or you can combine exposures with live-view and sweep panorama modes in 3D LUT to create a panorama with impressive 3D depth. The camera's High Sensitivity Sweep Panorama mode captures images from one-shot to 2,400 sec (20.8 minutes) long exposures in one step, making it easy to shoot broad-angle panoramas. You can also use the High Sensitivity Live View mode to take several long exposures by moving the camera back and forth while looking through the viewfinder. 3D LUTs make it easy to take beautiful panoramas from standard, portrait, or landscape orientation images [ENHANCE VIEW FINDER] [ENHANCE VIEW FINDER] The viewfinder of the A7R III is enhanced through the use of 3D LUTs to help you visualize the results of changes in image settings. With 3D LUTs, you can apply custom image processing to a JPEG image file, using a 3D color space, and without changing the color of the original image (just as if the photo was shot in RAW). You can also add artistic effects to help you take beautiful images, such as increasing saturation or contrast for dramatic colors, or even adjusting white balance.
