rezound producer is a midi sequencer for the mac. you can create and save your own sequences, record your songs, and add effects. rezound producer supports audio and midi tracks and features a powerful song editor. the program is completely free to use and does not require a purchase. looking for a great music production software for your mac? well, you came to the right place! here i am going to introduce you to rezound producer. this is a midi sequencer for mac, but this is not a typical midi sequencer. it allows you to record your song by using a midi keyboard, so you don't need to download any midi file! there is no limit on the number of layers that you can use. in addition, it supports native effects (fruity loops) so you can apply them to your midi notes. i've been using audio cleaning lab by magix for a number of years. ive used several versions of it, and use it to edit and clean up recordings of sermons for our church. recently ive also started to add music/speaking introductions and conclusions to the sermons, as well. after using it as much as i have, i am very comfortable making edits. it has some limitations, in that it will only work with two stereo tracks and only record one source at a time (mono/stereo). novation launchpad is a hybrid of a traditional midi controller keyboard and a music sequencer, with the synth-like launchpad. featuring an electronic piano-like keyboard and eight velocity sensitive pads, you can work creatively with full support of your computer for audio recording and editing. keyboard includes 128 programmable keys with aftertouch for expressive performance. pads have led feedback and are fully velocity-sensitive. you can assign each pad to a midi channel, select multiple pads, and assign a midi cc to any pad. the launchpad has many useful features, like a built-in step sequencer, a powerful arpeggiator, a sequencer with multiple midi tracks, multiple keyboard layouts, and a complete music sequencer with advanced editing features. 5ec8ef588b
