However, the verdict of this installment of the review is that Adobe's subscription strategy is a very smart one and the cloud collaboration features make it even better.

I'm looking forward to the future where I can work entirely from the cloud. What was significant back in 1999? It wasn't Photoshop's simultaneous conquering of the world, it was the price. $499 just for the CS. Adobe made A LOT of money off that price drop, but was that enough for them? Turns out no. Even after their next price drop five years later, the price was still $199, and still just for Creative Suite. While selling at a loss, that was enough to make a profit every year, but they wanted more, ever better, ever more. The "Smart Previews" feature is a recent addition to Photoshop CS6. Along with the "Show" and "Hide" buttons, the Smart Previews is a small but amazingly useful feature. When you bring up an image in Photoshop, whether from the application's image library or from local disk, a small icon representing each available size is displayed. You can click on the utility bar or on the "show smart previews" button to bring up the full list of sizes. This is very fast and convenient, and definitely worth the cost of Photoshop. If you want to do what it takes to make that big splash, Adobe Photoshop is the best choice. We've been using it for the last five years now and wouldn't trade it for any other photo editing software. But then, we don't take time to edit photos for a living.

Sharing your scoops to your social media accounts is a must to distribute your curated content. Not only will it drive traffic and leads through your content, but it will help show your expertise with your followers. Your curated content will also act as a great network enhancer because it will be seen as valuable by your followers. And, as you grow your social media channel, you'll constantly be coming in contact with new followers. If you write and share amazing content on your social media channel, you'll be in a great position to eventually become an affiliate for your own niche market. I have been in the internet marketing game since the turn of the millennium. I've been private labeled, been a public two-tier, amazon, cj, and jupiter partner, created my own software and co-created a niche site hosting business. I now work with a startup in the education sector called Suitepoint . My advice is to pick an affiliate program that you enjoy, and one that you can operate your business from. The most important part of this business, is to have a trusted company that you can depend on, and have a decade of experience. I'm not saying that this or any of the other companies mentioned in this are bad, but you need to carefully pick one, or get lucky.
