RegistryWizard is a powerful software application which helps people optimize their system's performance, scan PC registry, solve issues and generate reports. The interface is user-friendly and encloses several tabs, so that you can quickly browse all the available options. Both power and novice users can find their way around it, as it displays explanations of all items when hovering over them. Aside from that, it features backup and restore capabilities, so as to avoid deleting important information by accident. Upon first launching the software utility, you are required to perform a scan. This will tamper with your system's performance, as it uses high CPU and moderate memory, yet this is to be expected from this type of tool. Once the scan is finished, you can view all the errors and repair them. Furthermore, you can optimize system performance, in the sense that you can control the period of time to wait until the system kills an app, and the menu show delay. Windows tweaks are available, such as displaying compressed and encrypted NTFS files in color, disabling Aero, program compatibility assistant and performance counters, hide window contents while dragging, and so on. It is also possible to analyze and clean web browser (Internet Explorer, Mozilla Firefox, Google Chrome, Opera and Safari) history, cache, cookies, downloads, form info and passwords, as well as several Windows options (Start menu order, Network Drive, Clipboard etc.). From the settings panel, people can manage a ignore list, configure automatic startup, perform a full registry backup or reset counters for errors and repairs. Taking all of this into consideration, we can safely say RegistryWizard is a useful and powerful piece of software which helps you improve the way your computer runs, with many options to keep you busy, accessible to all user categories.Q: Centering inside that has an asp:Panel I have this nested asp:Panel inside an asp:ContentPlaceHolder: I want to center it inside the "testPanel" with CSS but I don't know how to accomplish that.
