Drivers for Windows XP - Windows 8 (Version 8 "R3") -...Hillary Clinton's language is often excoriated. To run for president, she is told, she has to sound like a college student. She talks about wiping the floor with the Republicans. She tells a crowd of supporters that some of their opponents "haven't been able to take their Trump out of their mouth." Even liberal commentators have been taken aback by the vehemence of her rhetoric — as much at home when punching down as when tearing down. But as a Texas liberal who aspired to be president and as the leader of the party at this most delicate moment, I've been impressed by her leadership. Even if I didn't like her. Clinton has been aggressive and uncompromising. That's been appropriate given the stakes and the scale of the task ahead. But she

I am trying to write some code that says "if the value of the select menu is '1', then show the first option of the drop down menu (option 2), and if it is '2', then show the second option and so on.. I am not sure how to do this. I can set the text of the option to whatever I want with the following code but I want to set the option with a variable. EDIT: figured it out. I am using php to grab the variable from a database. Thanks for the help guys! $('#option2').text("Option 2"); A: $('#option2').text(the_variable); If you're using PHP to obtain the variable you're interested in, use PHP to set it: $('#option2').text( ); If you're not doing that, you'll probably want to use the.val() function: $('#option2').val(the_variable); It will then automatically bind to the change event and update the value. Here's an example in jsfiddle: A: You should try: $('#option2').text(); Prime Minister of the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina Ramiz Sadiković is greeted by leaders of the Federation and the Republika Srpska during his visit to Sarajevo on 25 October 2014.
