For the past 3 years, I have been developing Fractalit with the goal of creating a web workflow that creates stunning web designs. My attention over the years has been focused on creating a tool that helps web designers and developers design and create great web designs. Focus has been placed on small adjustments to the CSS that improve every aspect of the overall design. My work has centered around CSS Grid Layout and the fundamentals to further widen the gap between designers and developers. In 1988, Thomas and John Knoll developed the first basic version of Photoshop. Later, it was taken over by Adobe systems. Then the software has been upgraded and updated with more advanced features, a set of tools, and commands. The Photoshop CC version is the latest version of the series and it is a part of the Adobe Creative Cloud branding. The Photoshop family has some other software, consisting of Photoshop lightroom, Photoshop elements, Photoshop fix, Photoshop express, and other software. With the new transition to native GPU tools, we have engaged a new team to hone the frontiers of our Photoshop Actions–Photoshop Toolkit to ensure that they are at the highest possible state of the art. This new team has begun creating new tools that can give the user a new level of performance and ways to approach the canvas with the tools they need to create or push the boundaries. As the team continues to complete the initial set of new tools, a new set of tutorials will be available to the community.

Adobe product development is a major part of our company. We are always looking for the next great idea, to see how we can further enhance Adobe products. Recently, I was fortunate enough to attend and listen to one some of the most fascinating sessions at the Interaction Design Conference in San Francisco. I came back and had this idea about how we could transform traditional photo editing applications. We had to start somewhere and Photo Tuneup was born. My team and I are excited to release all of this into the world and hope to see you feedback in coming months. We are very grateful for this and the opportunity we have had so far. As for all of our products, we strive to inspire. It has been a pleasure and honor to share with you a preview of the new tools and the future of Photo Tuneup. We are still hard at work and continue to build great products for every surface, everywhere you are. We look forward to many more years of personal and collaborative experiences together. I will see you in Photoshop near you.
